Her text to me said "I hate your online system, I can never tell what you have. You would have to be a 50-year-old dude who spends all day in the library to understand it." I cannot dispute the accuracy of her assessment.

A hand is holding a sheet of white graph paper with a light blue grid. The background is a light teal color with decorative elements: a blue circular ruler with various holes and markings in the top left, and a bouquet of purple bell-shaped flowers in the top right. A thin orange horizontal line is positioned below the text.
